This is combined with a fervent quest for endless 'growth', no matter how unsustainable. Brand Routledge.

The market study produced for the Commission analysed specific business opportunities. Consumers will get a fairer deal on their energy bills, through reforms introduced to the retail market to reduce the number of tariffs on... Read. The Commission believes that publicly listed companies should decide on simple, clear metrics to report annually to stakeholders. However, these largely do not reflect the cost of a range of externalities, in particular GHG emissions, and they include various subsidised and unpriced resources, including water, fossil fuels and food.

This is combined with a fervent quest for endless 'growth', no matter how unsustainable. In the next 15 years, like it or not, sustainability will become as big and disruptive in every sector as digital technologies have become over the past
